

DENVER LAW REVIEW

2024 EMERGING SCHOLAR AWARD

ELIGIBILITY

This exclusive publication opportunity is for all scholars who have:

- (1) received their J.D. as of March 1, 2024;
- (2) not yet accepted a tenure-track teaching position; and
- (3) not held full-time teaching positions for more than three years.

AWARD

The selected recipient will receive an award of $500 and publication in Issue 1, Volume 102, scheduled for early 2025.

WHY DLR?

Now is an optimal time to publish with the Denver Law Review!

In recent years, we have featured works by distinguished scholars including Dean Erwin Chemerinsky and Professors Catharine MacKinnon, Kathryn Abrams, Katherine Franke, Evan Lee, and Mark Tushnet.

We are excited to recognize and honor talented new scholars and look forward to reviewing your submissions.

Exclusive Publication Opportunity for Volume 102

The Denver Law Review is pleased to announce the 2024 Emerging Scholar Award submission period! The Emerging Scholar Award is now in its eleventh year. The most recent winner, Anthony Guttman, is currently a Law Clerk at the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and notes that the Emerging Scholar Award gave him a competitive advantage over other candidates. The 2021 recipient, Russell Spivak, was a Law Clerk for Judge Patrick Higginbotham of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

To participate, please email your article and CV to Kailey Houck (khouck25@law.du.edu) with the subject line "Emerging Scholar Award." This opportunity is open to articles that were previously submitted to the Denver Law Review, but we kindly ask that you resubmit your articles directly to Kailey Houck in order to be eligible for the Award.

We will accept submissions for the Emerging Scholar Award from February 5, 2024 through March 25, 2024. The articles will then be anonymized by the Editor-in-Chief and blind-ranked by our Articles Team by April 17, 2024.

*Please note: by submitting your article during the defined entrance period, you agree to accept a binding offer for publication if an offer is extended.
